I need to store a few binaries on Google Cloud Firestore as a blob but I want to also be able to store the files on Google Storage. I understand that package.appengine.api provides access to both Google Cloud Firestore and Google Cloud Storage. The package supports the Cloud Storage API: But does not appear to support the Cloud Firestore API: I'm asking here because I can't find any documentation about how to use the Cloud Firestore API, other than this: Does anyone know how to use package.appengine.api.appengine_storage.create_blob() with a Cloud Firestore resource? A: There is no way to use the App Engine API with Cloud Firestore as it isn't supported. You will need to use Cloud Storage to do so. In the field of free enterprise, as we discussed in our previous article, there are two fundamental approaches to acquiring ideas. Most people know which of these is true of technology, but there are a lot of false
